TRAVEL CLUB CATCHES ON

Nothing THE CARMEL SPEC-TATOR has ever done has created the excitement of the announcement in last week's SPECTATOR that this paper would launch a $1500 Travel-Circulation Club drive for new subscriptions.

An all expense ten day tour of the Hawaiian Islands! That has been the dream of almost everyone and those who have made the trip only long the more to return.

The first grand award has met with the greatest approval of those who will try for it. Their names will be published next week,

This is the opportunity of a lifetime, and will not cost the winner one cent. Just a faw weeks of pleasant work among friends and acquaintances -- and for a newspaper that is received with approval on every hand.

From week to week THE SPEC-TATOR will tell the readers all about what the fortunate winner will see on this tour. It will be first class from start to finish.

Or -- the person who receives the first grand award may take $500 in lieu of the trip.

$200 is the second grand award; and in each of three districts there will be given two awards, one for $100 and one for $50, after the grand awards have been made.

SECOND CLASS CONVENES AT GENERAL LINE SCHOOL

A group of 273 new officers reporting into the second class at the Reserve Officer Indoctrination was welcomed in an address by Captain Thomas J. Casey, Commanding Officer of the U.S. Naval Schools at Del Monte, at the first assembly meeting of the class last Saturday.

The officer students will study courses in naval orientation, navigation and seamanship, communications, tactics, anti-submarine warfare, ordnance and gunnery, naval engineering, military drill, and athletics.

Primary function of the Indoctrination School, first of its kind to be instituted since termination of all short-term training programs for newly commissioned officers during World War II. is to incalculate them with fundamental knowledge and skills to permit them to take over positions commensurate with their rank in fleet assignments; also to give them the general background in naval traditions and service the graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy receives.

Now that the 1951 offerings of the motorcar industry have had a chance to strut their stuff, we ask you-can there be any doubt which is the really smart buy?

If you want a "new look"—Buick has it. That sturdy push-bar forefront says "1951" to all who see it—and provides unsurpassed frontend. protection to boot.

If you want power that you can live with through many moons to come-Buick has that too. Years of expert engineering have made Buick's thrill-packed Fireball engine just about as dependable as a power plant can be.

If you want features that combine present pleasure with long-time durability, consider this:

Buick's level-going ride stems from coil springs on all four wheels which are virtually breakproof and never need servicing.

Buick's Dynaflow Drive* takes the strain out of every mile of driving—and pays off by eliminating any need for friction clutch repairs and replacements, by reducing engine and transmission upkeep, and lengthening life of tires.

No other car provides all this:

POTLUCK CARD PARTY AT WOMAN'S CLUB

Carmel Woman's Club was the setting for a potluck dessert and salad luncheon followed by an afternoon of bridge on Monday, March 12.

Congratulations were extended to Card Chairman Mrs. W.C. Peterson and her committee, Mrs. Anne Knox, Mrs. Charles Berkey and Mrs. Floyd Smith.

Decorations echoed spring with yellow acacia, yellow napkins, a center piece of calla lillies on the tea table and French bouquets on sixteen card tables. Two of each foursome brought the food, salad and dessert for two. The club served coffee, tea and hot rolls kept hot in an electric warmer furnished by Mrs. Barbara Murphy. Approximately one hundred players expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Peterson for a happy session.

The next meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club will be that of the Book Section, Mrs. Benjamin G. Johnson, Chairman. The speaker, Hazel Dries, an internationally known book binder and designer, will talk on "The Book and its Care."

Miss
Dries has lectured on books throughout the country. Her work is entirely professional; not the "casing" of magazines or expendable books, but the binding of rare volumes. Miss Dries will supplement her talk with examples of binding, illustrating her work professionally as a bibliographer.

Easter is at hand and also the Spring Rummage Sale of the Carmel Woman's Club. Rumors of various drives and sales are heard but the Peninsula public are smart shoppers. They know from other years that there is no sale like that of the Carmel Woman's Club. Farmers come all the way from Hollister and the hills beyond to stock up at this sale. At this time the rich and the poor alike share in swapping needed goods. April 9 is marked in red on all calendars on the Peninsula. It is a day of bargains and of fun.

Judging by the amount of surplus articles collected to date, this sale promises to outdo those of previous years. These desirable articles will be grouped on tables. Enthussales ladies will wait or customers. Mrs. L.C. Miller is in charge of household articles. She promises to sell anything fr on a set of Haviland dishes to a crackpot. Assisting Mrs. James Burgess, General Chairman, are these ladiesa team of well-known go-getters: Mrs. L.C. Miller, Mrs. Jack Belangee and President of the Club, Mrs. Annie Vaughan. Re-routing Long Distance circuits-one of the many interesting, vital jobs for women in the telephone business.

THE GIRLS BEHIND EACH TELEPHONE

Theirs are important jobs—and they do them well

1. Here's one business where the spotlight's really on women. Because of the nature of telephone work, nearly two out of every three telephone people are women - a high percentage. And they must be capable, well-trained women to handle your calls efficiently and serve you well in our offices. We train them, at our expense of course. And they earn good money in this important work.

3. It would be hard to imagine work for women today more important than a job in our nation's telephone service. For now, more than ever, our country needs swift, reliable communications to help speed the job of defense. And it's reassuring to know that in these days of high prices on most everything, you still get a bargain when you buy telephone service. Here in the West, on the average, telephone rates are up less than half as much as the cost of living.

"Give! To Help Your Red Cross Mobilize For Defense"

2. Practically every sort of job-from accounting to teaching-can be found in our business. In addition to good pay, the girls have the security of the company-paid Benefit Plan and enjoy holidays and vacations with pay. All know they have a good chance to advance as their ability grows. Perhaps the best evidence of the importance of women to us is that hundreds have management jobs.

READING TO YOUR CHILD WILL ESTABLISH NICE RELATIONSHIP

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

OFTEN in this column I've entreated parents to read to the young child and to keep on reading to him after he enters school, with the hope of reading to one another in the family by and by, just for companionship and pleasure. In my bulletin "Books from Which To Read to the Baby and Young Child" (to be had by sending self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper) I give seventeen reasons for reading to the child. One of these reasons is the gain in ease and forcefulness of speech and writing by the parent who does the reading. Usually the very kind of stories young children like to hear, are told in simply, direct and effective style. February 12 was Lincoln's birthday. From the time when he learned to read he was continually reading aloud even when alone. After he began to practice law he often read aloud.

It's wonderful when various members of the family read to one another some news item from the local paper, some joke or unusual statement or idea, some beautiful verses or paragraphs of prose or whole chapters of a book. It can be a delightful companionship.

Younger Parents

Some of us shared in such experiences of reading and listening when we were children and when we were younger parents with our own children. Few memories are to me more precious than of when one of our own children at 8, 10 or 15 would read aloud something from a story he was reading for mere fun or from a book of reading assigned at school. Often this was just blurted out with the hope that someone would listen appreciatively.

I can also remember happily hearing my grandfather reading from the Bible to my grandmother while she was mending or doing other work with her hands. Often I would choose to listen for a long while. One pair of grandparents of our children used to read every evening to each other from the Bible and often there were many younger listeners.

Read to Each Other

How delightful when many older married couples on evenings alone read to each other a verse or paragraphs or humorous remarks come upon, while the other also reading, gladly stops and

Modern invention and ways in homes today—television, radio, and somebody always in a hurry to go somewhere-don't encourage this reading to one another. Nevertheless, there still are homes of leisure around the f where all the family are together on some or many evenings: there are some such homes from which the world is shut out for long periods at a stretch.

There could be more such homes if more parents saw the values of such and cultivated pleasure of listening in the child from his very early years by reading and reading and reading to him. Fortunately more and more teachers are reading aloud in the schoolroom for the children's enjoyments and more children are learning at school to read aloud and are practiced there at reading to one another.

One of the outstanding paintings in the new exhibit at the Carmel Art Association Galleries is this large canvas by Arthur Hill Gilbert, "Carmel Coast." Limiting the show to paintings and works by early painters on the Carmel scene, the exhibition committee has gone through the community to borrow work by artists, many of whose work is no longer for sale. Included among the artists represented are Myron Oliver and his father, J.K. ERICA FRANKE CHESS SET

A seventeenth century traditional portrait bust in the Baroque style was the inspiration for the chess set (now at O'Keeffe's) which was made by Erica Franke, painter, who first ventured into sculpturing with this chess set.

Miss Franke was born in New York. She studied art at the Art Students' League before going to the Accademia Di Belli Arti in Venice, Italy. Since returning to America she has had several showsone at the Blair Studios on the Wharf and another, of wash drawings, at the Monterey Craft Center. She is now employed on the Pine Cone, and her husband, Michael Franke, is an accountant in Monterey.

Miss Franke has always admired Greek terra cottas, and as she purposely avoided high glazes she found her inspiration in these terra cottas.

Glen Minshall helped her with glazes and advised her on technical processes. Miss Franke believes that the chess set is the only one of its kind. She used a soft clay mixed with grog (dry clay ground to a sand-like texture). This gave an uneven surface to the figures, and the whole effect of the chess set is of something centuries old recently excavated from an ancient ruin.

Prior to making the chess set, Miss Franke had little sculpturing or ceramic experience. Now she is going to develop the idea of the tile chess board into tables interpreting some of her own drawings in ceramic tiles. They should be stunning for cocktail tables,

"Rather than traditionalized stylized figures, I wanted to make portrait busts--each having individual character and expression. All the pawns have been given different faces, yet each seems to belong to the same group."

TO SELECT A PLEASING COLOR SCHEME is made easy for you by DUNNE PAINTS at the CARMEL PAINT AND WALLPAPER COMPANY. All you need to do is first to choose a dominant color—any hue you like that is suited to a large area. Then for a ge-together color scheme, select any other color that has the same symbol as the dominant color first chosen. (DUNNE SUITED PAINTS let you have fun by using the clubs, hearts, spades or diamonds of a card deck as symbols.) For accent tones, such as you would use for color emphasis or for complementary colors to produce a more stimulating effect, you just stick with your symbol (club, heart, spade or diamond) originally selected, and the whole plan is laid out for you—just as simple as arranging a canasta hand!

THE CARMEL PAINT AND WALLPAPER COMPANY, on Junipero and Fourth, has other fascinating paints in its store which are just as much fun to work with, but space does not permit me to describe them all. I must, however, mention the fabulous Satin Luminall, a synthetic rubber paint sensation which is scrubbable, durable, safe, easy, quick, economical and beautiful. Though I could go on far hours about it, it would be best for you to drop in and talk over problem with MrWalker at the CARMEL PAINT AND WALLPAPER COMPANY. These beautifully tailared and dress-maker suits range in price from $35.00 to $85.00. I noticed that they were all nicely ained in pure-dye silk and that the detail around the shoulders and pockets was interesting and well done. In addition to suits with tailared jackets, there were some with box coats. There was also a novelty striped jacket with the skirt in a solid color which caught my eye. It is needless to mention that these suits are all 100% wool. They range in size from 10 to 20 and in half-sizes from 7 to 15. CANNED MUSHROOMS NICE TOUCH TO MANY DISHES

By ALICE DENHOFF

THE well-stocked kitchen grocery shelf invariably contains a few cans of mushrooms, broiled in butter. Fine as an ingredient for some excellent dishes, such as a pleasing mushroom, pork and bean loaf.

Place 2 bacon strips in bottom of iron pot. Mix one half of 21/2 lb. top round and fresh pork. ground, that has all been mixed thoroughly with a chopped onion, thyme, marjoram, salt and pepper, all to taste, and form into a loaf. Make dent in center and cover with contents of 8-oz. can button mushrooms, drained from liquid. Cover with remainder of meat and also one can kidney beans. To liquid drained from mushrooms, add sufficient water to make ½ c.; pour on meat loaf, then place 2 slices bacon on top. Cover and cook in slow oven (300 F.) for about 11/2 hrs., adding more water as necessary.

Here is one that comes up as a good Lenten special, but it is ready to star at the table any time of year when something a little out of the ordinary is desired. Cook and season one lb. spinach, chop fine and allow to stand in a colander to drain thoroughly while preparing the sauce. Melt 4 thsp. butter, add one minced onion, then cook gently until onion is tender but not brown. Add 2 tbsp. flour; stir until blended. Add one c. milk; cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Remove from heat. Drain a small can (2 oz.) mushooms preserving the liquor. Beat one egg yolk with the mushroom liquor. Add to the thickened cream sauce, return to heat for 2 min., stirring constantly. Add 2 tbsp. grated cheese, cook and stir until cheese is melted. Add drained mushrooms. Place cooked spinach in bottom of fire-proof glass serving dish. Top with one can (6½ oz.) crabmeat. Cover with sauce, sprinkle with 2 thsp. grated cheese. Place in 375 F oven until cheese melts.

A batch of mushroom cutlets offers a nice luncheon or supper dish. To prepare 8 cutlets, saute 4 oz. can sliced mushrooms, drained from liquid, in 4 tbsp. butter until lightly browned. Remove

$150,000 taxes daily for your well-being

A. B. Jacobsen, chairman of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, says the Company's new Moss Landing Steam Plant "will contribute more revenue in local taxes than any other single industrial development in the history of Monterey County."

P. G. and E. is the State's largest property taxpayer. In 1950 we paid over 27 million dollars in local taxes. Federal and state taxes brought our total taxes to almost 55 million dollars! That's better than $150,000 a day.

A business-managed utility produces taxes instead of consuming them. This tax revenue would have to be obtained from other sources if our business were publicly owned and tax exempt.

Bill Tod, is shift foreman of our new 670,000 hp Contra Costa Steam Plant, which represents an investment of $80,000,000. P. G. and E. already is the largest property taxpayer in the countyover $1,850,000 last year. The new plant will boost local tax revenues even higher.

"THE CRADLE SNATCHERS"

The Wharf Players, Inc., picked an old mellow chestnut to vehicle their triumphant return to local theater as a new communityowned_group -- and made it taste good to first night audiences by some very amusing and uninhibited

"The Cradle Snatchers" might have been a yawn-provoker except for its cast who generally caught the effervescence of the "Roaring Twenties" with such spontaneity that it rubbed off on the audience,

"Cradle Snatchers" is a flapper-era farce about three frustrated bridge-playing wives (Helen Silvani, Betty Fowlston, Ruth Mc Elroy) who get even with three philandering husbands (Bruce Ariss, John Craig, George Martin) by hiring three amateur college gigolos (Jim Madden, Burt Minkin, Alex Olivetti) from a fraternity to make the husbands jealous. There are some honestly hilarious situations between wives and gigolos, hus bands and wives, and husbands and gigolos. The climax, naturally, is when wives and gigolos are surprized at a summer cottage by the husbands who are supposedly duckhunting - and who are surprized in turn by three young flappers (Wanda Rholdes, Betty Rambeau, Lois Ann McGregor) who show up for a clandestine party.

Ruth McElroy, as the wife whose blood turns hot as Spanish sauce which the Franciscan Padres sang Spanish osteopath student (Alex has for the first time been made Olivette), turned her fine sense of available to the general public in as the chief conspirator, did some of the Old Mission, Santa Barbara. funny flibberty-gibbeting with her Released this week, the twocollege boy friend Jim Madden). nity boy (Burt Minkin). The men he cast, while playing less flam boyant roles as a whole, all got heir laughts, too - particularly Alex Olivetti who hammed un ashamedly and to good effect.

Good for a laugh and a shudder in themselves were the wardrobes of the ladies of the cast. The short sack-drape flapper dresses borrow ed probably from attic trunks (and eturned there forever, lets hope e cept for future theater or masuerade) kept the calendar turned back to the '20's. Even lovely Myrtlerose Craig as The Sweet Young Thing chaperone and the hree sexy flappers made one wonler that the boyish silhouette didn't cause a male revolt for almost a decade. Adeline Craig, as the bewildered maid proved a small part can still be a well played one.

Direction by Dan Totheron can be credited to a great degree with successfully toasting this 25 year old chestnut. With Tother oh's ability and a roster of experienced players to draw upon, The Wharf Players have the opportunity to establish a wide-spread reputation for themselves and Peninsula theater. We hope to see them make the most of their potential with a wise choice of future offerings.

Created or arranged for the most part by the missionaries themselves, these compositions lay for over a century in the dusty silence of mission museums and archives. In 1930 Father Owen da Silva, O.F.M., then a student at the Santa Barbara Mission, began to examine the Golden State's musical heritage as it found it preserved in these old manuscripts. He transcribed the ancient notation and, as he arranged the simple, haunting melodies, he taught them to the Padre Choristers.

In 1941 Father Owen, now stationed at Saint Francis Retreat House, San Juan Bautista, California, published his compilation of rare manuscripts under the title "Mission Music of California," and it is considered the authoritative work on the subject. Several of the songs that appeared in this volume are now brought to life in the new recordings by the 25 voice choir under his own direction. The eight selections heard include motets. hymns and plainchants that were once popular throughout California. and were sung by Padres, Indians and colonists alike.

CHILDREN OF PARADISE AT HILL THEATER

"Children of Paradise," the ebullient French film which follows "Hamlet" on the Hill Theater screen Sunday, was made in Maquis hideouts during the occupation of France. In spite of, or perhaps because of, this circumstance it is one of the biggest films ever to come out of France. Certainly it is one of the longest. Originally, "Les Enfants du Paradis" played something over three hours. The version distributed in the United States has been cut to just short of two hours and a half.

The film has not so much a story as it has a pre-eminent locale - the theatrical district of Paris in the 1899's - which it brings to superabundant life through the telling of myriad little stories of people. These people, the petit monde who occupy the "peanut galoery" (or 'paradise''), as well as the backstage actors, are very human characterizations, but the focus of reality here is paris itself, in one of its gayest, most teeming manifectacomical particularly in her romantic outstanding authority on early tions. Starred in the film are Jean-Louis Barrault and Arletty, she of the beautiful body.

"MURDER IN A NUNNERY"

A murder mystery for Peninsulites to solve -- "Murder in a Nunnery" -- is the play to be produced tonight (Friday) by the graduating class of Carmel High

The story starts with the conventional murder-mystery theme -the Baroness Sliema, a long-time, unpopular resident of this small convent school, is slain in the chapel. A detective from Scotland Yard (Howard Viet), accompanied by a police officer (Conrad Ege), is called. It is difficult to tell the sisters and students apart, due to anonymity provided by their clothing. Fortunately the Reverend Mother (Katy Brania) has the inspiration to call a repetition of the chapel episode, and thereby virtually solves the case. But, something unforseen develops -something of far more importance than life, or murder, in a convent.

Humor is provided by the youthful antics of the students (Audrey Marilyn Moffatt Campbell, Elizabeth Yarra, Lilian Lee, Alys Knight), the earthy frankness of the gardener (Bill White, Jr.) and by several of the nuns (Pat Merivale. Sherrie Henderson, Kathy Seipel). The inevitable American touch in the English community, a reporter, with a camera -- is supplied by Rod Dresser.

The play will be presented this evening at 8 p.m., at Sunset Auditorium. Adult tickets, available at the door, are 80 cents.

Several waves of these artist "invaders" came and went in those early days, when only an occasional house could be seen in the wilderness that was then Carmel

Playing quarterback on the famous team to whose prowess the football bronze on the Berkeley campus was erected, earned him the job of coach of Nevada's team, which later defeated Yost's famous Stanford eleven. Coaching duties at Nevada were coupled with the study of law. Bar examinations were successfully passed. But a single morning's walk up Market Street--reading the lawyers' shingles--finished me. I knew I never wanted to be a lawyer."

Returning to his first love, writing, he did another stint on The Chronicle, on whose staff he had earlier been a reporter. His stories became increasingly well known, and soon he was invited to a place on the staff of McClure's Magazine. War years interrupted this experience, but after Verdun he returned to this country and to writing. Mr. Hopper has already published over 450 stories.

Together with his wife, an accomplished musician, he is enjoying again the beauty and inspiration provided by this spot to which he came with those early "colonists." No longer are there only scattered houses in a wilderness of trees, and no longer may one live on a bit of abalone, but creative genius still finds this a spot in which to flourish.

Gibson Girl Influence

Three-piece wool outfit.

RECENTLY there was an exhibit of original Gibson Girl drawings, and more than one designer seemed fascinated by the Gibson lovelies dressed for yachting. So what do we find touted for southern resort wear but clothes quite reminiscent of the yachting costume of the 1890's. This one combines a red white and blue striped lightweight wool skirt, smocked of yoke and knife-pleated. Worn with it is a navy jersey blouse with high, round neck and short sleeves. A short, boxy white flannel jacket completes the outfit.

RESIDENTIAL BUILDING CONTROL VIEWED FOR CARMEL

Carmel will take steps to prevent construction of "single family" dwellings which can be converted easily and surrpetitiously to duplexes by establishing some sort of architectural control in residential zones, if a legal basis for such control can be found by the city attorney.

Building Inspector Floyd Adams complained that such buildings make inspection work extremely difficult for him. That control might include the general architecture of buildings to see that they conform with "Carmel tradition" was suggested by Mayor Allen Knight. City Attorney Thomas K. Perry was instructec by the city council at its meeting last week to sea ch for a legal means of control. At present, only the business district of Carmel is zoned for construction.
